UNO STUDIES INVITATION FROM FRANCO

Inspection of Country Is Urged; Representative May Speak

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 13.—The United Nations Security Council guardedly studied today an invitation from the Spanish cabinet asking the council to determine by inspection whether refugee German scientists are engaged in atomic research in Spain.

Council reaction was lacking, but one delegation which declined to be identified had indicated previously that an invitation from Generalissimo Francisco Franco asking for such an investigation would seem a logical answer for the Spanish leader to make to Poland and the United States.

There probably will be no immediate decision on acceptance or rejection of Franco's invitation, but the possibility arose Spain might be permitted to state her case before the council.

Representative May Speak
Spanish sources said Franco might send a representative to the council, if asked, on the condition that he be allowed to speak without taking the role of defending a nation on trial.

Some authorities suggested the council under its elastic powers could call upon a non-voting non-member to participate in its own interests, if desired, in order that both sides might be heard.

Similarly, in its wide latitude of operation, the council could send members or delegated technicians to Spain as an investigative body if the evidence of Poland—and supporting arguments expected to be offered by Russia, France and Mexico—against Spain—indicates that such action is necessary.

The 12-nation cabinet statement in Madrid contained the first official mention of allegations concerning the atomic bomb. On that score the Polish accusation had gone no further than to charge that German scientists were "developing new means of warfare" in Spain, but unofficial organizations and sources in the United States and Paris subsequently asserted that atomic research was involved.

Iranian Issue First
United States policy on the Spanish question indicated support for the idea of a full hearing of the case.

The U. S. and Britain currently maintain that Spanish problems must be resolved by the Spanish people.

It appeared unlikely that the Spanish question would be reached on Monday. The Iranian issue is ahead of it on the provisional agenda.

Tavern Burglary Nets Burglars Safe and $50

Sheriff George Hayes was called today to Pappy's tavern, on the East Palestine-Negley road, to investigate a breaking and entering and theft of a safe containing approximately $50.

The tavern was entered by forcing a rear window, Sheriff Hayes said. A truck evidently was used to move the safe, he said.

Robert Chaplow of East Palestine operates the business. He said he had closed at 1 a. m. Friday and returned to re-open at 4 p. m. It was then he discovered the loss.

Mystery of Fogs Is Believed Solved by Former Salem Man

Dale Leipper Devises Method of Forecasting Fog Attacks

Out at Scripps Institution at La Jolla, Calif., Dale F. Leipper, a former Salem boy, has formulated a method that will materially advance the ability to predict fog.

Fog is an ancient mystery. In seaports it can be seen hanging offshore for hours. Then it swoops in. Or on a clear day, it suddenly forms and blots out the sun.

Years ago Carl Sandburg of Chicago wrote that "the fog comes in on little cat feet."

Leipper, a former army captain in the A.A.P. weather service, believes that out of his study made in the Aleutians, during the time that American bombers flew through the "soup" of the North Pacific to bomb the Japanese Kurile bases, he has devised a plan to advance the art of fog-predicting.

Taught School
Dale, who before the war was a teacher in Pacific Beach Junior High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leipper of La Mesa, Calif. The family moved from Salem five years ago.

His method for saying whether at a definite time tonight or tomorrow a fog will occur is now being studied by meteorologists at the San Diego weather bureau and by army and navy forecasters.

A dozen of them already have reported back that his method is bringing results.

It may be the key to solving the fog mystery so that within a reasonably short time there may be more definite daily fog prediction.

When Leipper taught school before the war, he took no more interest in fog or weather than the average young man who plans a week-end excursion.

Then one day when he was serving as a private at a northern California army post he received a package wrapped in a newspaper. In that newspaper was a story saying the army wanted men who could qualify to study meteorology and become meteorological officers.

Secret Hunted
He applied for the course, and spent 12 months in study, including three months of specialized study at the Scripps Institution. In the course of time he found himself hunting the secret of fog in America's northwest approach, one of the world's foggiest regions.

"It was pretty important," he said. "Our planes would be coming back with their gas tanks nearly empty. And then 10 minutes before they would land, a field of visibility of several miles would close in suddenly to zero."

"What we needed was a key to predicting that fog. The army at times needed a forecast 36 hours in advance and we had no methodical way of giving it to them. We set out to find a method. And as a result, I think the number of lives lost because of fog may be materially decreased."

To understand Leipper's method well enough to use it would require a course in meteorology. But the difficulties and the basic idea of his method can be understood by any layman.

Meteorologists already understood the theory of fog. They knew that if moist air became sufficiently chilled, fog was bound to form. They knew just how cold it had to be to produce fog in air of any degree of wetness.

"But that was laboratory science," Leipper said. "We didn't have laboratory equipment."

Continue Hunt for "Back" Canine With Musical Tail
LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Some-where out on the desert, they're looking for Bach, the Dachshund with the musical tail, who disappeared with his five months old daughter, Bito, early this month.

Bito's been found...but the pupils of St. Michael's school, Palmdale, tell about it, as they did in a letter to a Los Angeles newspaper:

"We are glad we found Bito. Please thank you for helping me. Please find Bach too. He keeps time with his tail when Mr. Cavanaugh gives us music lessons. He barks when we hit wrong notes. He may be looking for Bito. We love Bach. He will be eight years old Easter morning."

"Bach doesn't like popular music but he may be near a juke box or radio somewhere."

DRAFT ACTION IS EXPECTED

Support For "Holiday" May Result In Extension Approval

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—Snowballing support for a draft "holiday" forced reluctant house leaders to indicate a willingness today to go along on a temporary induction ban in order to get the draft law extended nine months from May 15.

But they prepared to fight an amendment prohibiting the induction of anyone under 20—an amendment army spokesmen said privately would nullify the entire legislation.

Apparently there wasn't much they could do about either the "holiday" proposal or the "teen-age ban" for both rolled up heavy support yesterday during debate on the draft extension measure.

Action Forthcoming
These two red-hot issues are scheduled to be disposed of one way or the other by nightfall, along with a motion to kill outright the entire extension legislation. And to allow plenty of time for a decision, Speaker Rayburn called the house into early session again today for the second successive day in an effort to send the bill to the senate for a vote next week.

Draft "holiday" support has been nowhere near as conspicuous in the senate, whose military committee has recommended a straightforward extension of selective service, without any such innovation.

The present odds seemed to be that the two chambers would pass radically different measures, leaving the ultimate form of the draft extension to be worked out in senate-house conference.

The house draft "holiday" plan would ban the induction of anyone between next May 15, when the present draft law is due to expire, and Oct. 15, 1946.

The proposal would continue the draft law in effect until next Feb. 15, but with an induction moratorium of at least six months to give a voluntary enlistment campaign an opportunity to fill army manpower needs.

If enlistments proved inadequate, the President could order resumption of inductions after Oct. 15 and until Feb. 15.

Angry House Democrats Hit Warpath After Party Errors

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—Angry house Democrats hit the warpath today for the scalps of officials at the party's national headquarters responsible for recent mistakes which have riled legislative tempers.

One lawmaker, Rep. Cox of Georgia, went so far as to say the expedition may culminate in an effort to oust national Chairman Robert T. Hannegan.

Most of the law-makers expressed doubt such drastic action would be taken. They predicted that Hannegan would merely be called on the carpet, although some of his aides would get the axe.

Cox told a reporter the whole matter probably would be discussed at an official caucus of house Democrats tentatively set for Monday. A caucus is a party meeting at which policies usually binding on members are decided.

CONSERVATIVE BLOC WINS IN JAP ELECTION

Lively Fight Looms As Shidehara Plans To Re-tain Cabinet

(By Associated Press)
TOYKO, April 13.—Virtually final, unofficial returns from Japan's general election emphasized tonight that a heavy conservative bloc would dominate the house of representatives which meets May 10 to consider a new constitution.

Japanese, meantime, were promised a lively fight between Premier Shidehara, who is determined to retain his cabinet until the constitution has been adopted, and liberal party leader Ichiro Hatoyama, who wants to form a coalition government.

With only one seat of the 466-member house to be filled, newspaper figures gave the Liberals—who actually are conservative—141 seats, a lead of 48 over their nearest rivals, the Progressives, who also are conservative.

The Progressive membership was reduced by tonight's figures to 93. Hold Bare Majority

With their total of 234 votes, the two parties hold a bare majority, but may get support from many of the 80 Independents and some of the 92 Social Democrats elected.

The latter has both right and left factions. Other seats went to: Minor parties 39, Cooperatives 14 and Communists five.

The house will meet with 465 members. Since the Japanese normally have been politically conservative, the results had been anticipated, although it was expected that the newly enfranchised women and young men would give some support to left-wing Socialists and Communists.

Hatoyama, who recently acknowledged he wrote a book praising Hitler and Mussolini but said he never disavowed it, called for a coalition to oust the aging Shidehara's cabinet.

"Old Influences"
Assessing the results of the election, in which women voted for the first time and chose at least 35 of their sex to the diet, the influential newspaper Asahi said:

"The fact many votes were cast for old influences such as the Progressive and Liberal parties demonstrates that realities do not change at a jump. . . . We must remember that old spheres of influence still continue to be strong and that these feudalistic, conservative spheres constitute the greatest impediment to freedom or progress in the democratic revolution of Japan."

28 Aussie War Brides Fail To Sail For U. S.

SIDNEY, April 13.—U. S. officials reported tonight 28 Australian brides of American servicemen had failed to take scheduled passage when the transport David C. Shanks sailed from Sydney today.

The Sydney Daily Telegraph said some of the brides were overwrought and suffered minor attacks of claustrophobia. The David C. Shanks has no portholes, but is airconditioned.

Two war brides, one tearfully homesick and the other with an ailing infant, walked off the transport a half hour before she sailed for the United States with 450 brides and babies.

More Low Priced Clothes By July, Bowles Predicts

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles expressed confidence today the shortage of inexpensive clothing will ease considerably in three months.

In a radio address he appealed to the public to be patient "a little while longer."

Stating that production of cloth and apparel is on the uptrend, Bowles added:

"Ordinarily it takes about 14 weeks for new fabrics to show up as finished garments in your stores. This whole troublesome situation, I am confident, should be a lot better by the middle of July."

Bowles, in review of the clothing problem, said that to date the record of getting low and moderately-priced garments on the market "is no credit either to the industry or the government."

Staggering Demand
Discussing the shirt shortage, Bowles said a principal reason for it is "the absolutely staggering demand." The government estimates, he reported, that Americans would snap up more than 320,000,000 shirts this year.

"But in the last prewar year, 1939 far less than half that many shirts were bought and sold," Bowles said. "Just think what the millions of returning G. I.'s would do to the kind of stocks you used to find in your stores."

With each man wanting maybe three or four or a half dozen, the shirt industry would be kept busy for months, just supplying veterans' alone.

Bowles listed these "basic reasons" for the shortage of inexpensive cotton clothing:

1. A shortage of workers in the textile mills during the last two years.

2. Failure of the government to take "more vigorous, realistic action in the early days of the clothing scarcity. Bowles reiterated that clothing should have been rationed."

3. Removal shortly after the war on controls which required mills to make essential fabrics needed for low-cost clothing. These were restored a few days ago.

4. Rising raw cotton prices.

BLACK MARKET IS BLAMED BY MOST PACKERS

Government Action Is Expected Soon To Alleviate Shortage

Housewives were forced to figure out meatless menus in many sections of the nation today.

Even in Salem the supplies were none too plentiful. Some meat counters were practically bare today following an unusually heavy run yesterday by customers buying enough for weekend meals.

Butcher shop proprietors in Chicago, the world's packinghouse center, helplessly attempted to cope with the customers' clamor for meat by offering a few chickens, sausage or the usually less popular cuts.

The growing shortage appeared to be worse in numerous cities than at any time during wartime rationing.

Sen. Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.), chairman of the senate agriculture committee, predicted in Chicago yesterday that unless price controls were lifted there wouldn't be any legitimate meat on the market within 30 days. He said OPA had "practically given up" on the "black market situation."

Cattle Purchases Low
Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of Wilson and Co., said cattle purchases by major packers in Chicago were the lowest this week that he could recall in 50 years.

Fifteen packers, including Armour, Swift and Wilson, he said, altogether bought only 9,000 head, or about 25 per cent, of the slaughter cattle sold the first four days this week.

The other 75 per cent, Wilson said, went to buyers for plants outside Chicago "at prices that were substantially higher than Chicago packers could pay for the cattle and keep costs at or below ceilings."

The only conclusion, he continued, was that "a very large percentage" of this cattle was moving through illegitimate slaughter channels.

Would Lift Ceilings
"There is no answer to the situation short of complete removal of price controls on livestock and meat," Wilson said.

The shortage brought a promise of action "within a few days" to enable the big packers to obtain more livestock.

Department officials wouldn't indicate what the action might be but there was speculation that a slaughter quota program administered by the OPA during the war might be reinstated.

George Dressler of Chicago, executive secretary of the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, contended that housewives would have plenty of meat at prices only about five cents a pound over present ceilings within 30 days if the ceilings were removed.

On the other hand, Philip Weightman, vice president of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers union, asserted that "return to meat rationing and quota control for slaughtering cattle have proven to be the best way of maintaining a normal flow of meat to the consumer."

The house agriculture committee proposed to abolish meat subsidies of $700,000,000 and raise retail ceilings against six cents a pound in compensation.

ATOM BOMB TESTS VITAL, SAYS TRUMAN

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Truman, who once postponed atomic bomb tests in the Pacific, said today these tests are of vital importance and he had been assured the new target dates would be met.

He issued a formal statement on the subject, but without any explanation of why he selected this particular time to give his views. However, Senator Huffman (D-Ohio) recently introduced a resolution calling for cancellation of tests.

Mr. Truman said experiments at Bikini atoll should provide information "essential to intelligent planning in the future and an evaluation of the effect of atomic energy on our defense establishments."

The first of two tests of the bomb against warships was set originally for May 15. Mr. Truman postponed it for about six weeks, saying that many congressmen wanted to witness the trials but were unable to do so at that time.

The joint army-navy task force conducting the tests expects to hold the first one July 1 or as near that date as the weather permits. The initial experiment involves the explosion of an atom bomb in the air above the target ships. The second will be an underwater explosion.

Bad Diplomacy

Two things now are apparent in a casual view of international relations.

One is that the attempt of the United States to prove it could be firm with Russia has not come off as well as it might have.

The other is that the United Nations can be ruined if it is used as a diplomatic cockpit.

Our widely-praised and eagerly-awaited demonstration of toughness in relations with the Soviet Union failed to be as convincing because Iran turned out to be a weak case. In the showdown, the United States was left holding the bag. What was supposed to be a diplomatic triumph for Washington became a diplomatic triumph for Moscow instead. As Pravda, the Soviet Union's "loudspeaker," saw the situation, the Iranian question was inflated artificially then blew up in the faces of those matching wits and grips with Russian diplomacy. In short, while it was good politics for Washington to prove it could be firm with Russia, the means chosen were bad diplomacy. Russia was not impressed.

The incident confirmed misgivings about the fate of the United Nations if diplomats use it, as they used it in this case, to continue their traditional sparring, niggling and heckling. Russia, embarrassed by the security council's consideration of its position in Iran, now watches Poland embarrass the United States and Britain by chiding them for not throwing out Franco in Spain. There are dozens of things like this that can be brought up to distract the United Nations from its purposes. They are: to maintain peace; develop friendly relations, achieve international cooperation and be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations.

Calling other nations dirty names in diplomatic language is not included. To include it is to betray the hopes of all the people who are ready to renounce war and have put their faith in a handful of men conferring in the gymnasium of Hunter college, the Bronx, New York City.

A Small Down Payment

The Senate banking committee's 14-5 vote approving the British loan proposal brings this costly and important proposition to the point of congressional debate. It will be pointed out with deep conviction that the United States cannot afford not to make the $3,750,000,000 loan, as drawn up by international banking experts. In all probability, the proposal will carry and the loan will be made.

But there should be in every taxpayer's mind one reservation. Great Britain cannot be put on its feet and kept there as the English-speaking ally of the United States for $3,750,000,000. That amount, equivalent to the cost to this country of fighting World War II for a little more than a fortnight, is only a small down payment.

Once this government becomes committed to a peacetime version of its wartime lend-lease policy, there will be no limit to the billions that will follow one another into the yawning maw of international subsidy. Britain is starting with $3,750,000,000. France, according to Leon Blum, needs at least $4,000,000,000.

Lend-lease had reached more than $42,000,000,000 by last July. When it was started it was to be a garden hose we would "lend" to our neighbors to put out a fire. The British loan would be easier to think about if its backers were more candid in admitting that Britain couldn't be saved by a paltry $3,750,000,000. It's a lot of money to American taxpayers, but small change in the international subsidy business.

Misuse of Weapons

Interest in proposals to outlaw atomic weapons everywhere on earth, in line with the plan proposed by the State department, is curbed by misgivings about enforcement.

In a perfect society there would be no misuse of any lethal weapon. In fact, existing local, state and national laws make it theoretically impossible for lethal weapons to be misused now; they have been outlawed.

The laws against misuse of the weapons are never broken by those who respect them, but only by those who take advantage of the relative helplessness of the unarmed to coerce them by intimidation and the threat of injury.

This is a fact well-known to millions of Americans, citizens of the nation which would give up what it has for the promises of other nations never to take advantage thereafter of its good will. It accounts for American skepticism about all proposals to lift the threat of atomic destruction by having the United States turn over what it knows to other nations and to take no further advantage of its special knowledge.

It is too much like trying to lift a full-grown cow without limbering up first by lifting a calf. There seems never to have been an instance in history when men or nations actually succeeded in renouncing a powerful weapon except as forced to do so by fear of retaliation, as in the case of poison gas in World War II.

O Tempora

Prof. C. Herman Pritchett's most recent analysis of Supreme court decisions brings the rather startling revelation that even that august body is not impervious to time and inner change.

Specifically, Professor Pritchett informs us that Justice Felix Frankfurter is now one of a conservative minority of three on the highest tribunal. That's right—a conservative minority.

A long family argument over mowing the lawn is foolish. Cut it short!

The Stars Say

For Sunday, April 14.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is not an entirely propitious or satisfactory one. There are many signs of duplicity, treachery, suspicion and sinister undercurrents, which are likely to find unhappy reactions on all the affairs of life. Unguarded words and deeds may result in estrangements or unwelcome breaks. Strange or peculiar situations call for decisive solution on a basis of sound principles.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of perplexity, strange entanglements and difficult problems to manipulate on a basis of sound reasoning and high principle and not with dubious or sinister undercurrents.

The latter may provoke emotional outbursts in which rash words or treacherous deeds may cause separations of treasured ties. Sign all writings, documents and tacit agreements with keen insight into integrity and sound policies. Steer clear of all intrigues.

A child born on this day might need sound direction and training in order to avert many pitfalls and intriguing conditions.

For Monday, April 15.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows the sudden advent of circumstances or a situation which should be instrumental in stemming the tide of disaster, disappointment and disruption, as has been lately in a menacing position. To effectively and happily solve this predicament, with its hopeful prospects, may take firm, reasonable and workable management for establishing the life and its objectives on a firm and enduring basis, with a future of promise and security. Hard work, persistent effort and logical reasoning should bring security.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy the happy prospect of escaping from a difficult and entangling situation, with clearance from certain peculiar and involved conditions. But this will be accomplished only by persistent efforts, sound tactics and an insight into trickery or peculiar fundamentals.

Erratic or emotional conclusions might defeat this excellent opening for putting the future and its security on a safe and enduring basis. Old or static situations call for breaking up.

A child born on this day has splendid talents of a unique or strange order, inventive, scientific or creative, and these may be prospered by industry, common sense and practical application.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Chronic Respiratory Ills from Continued Colds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOTHERS, be on your guard against long-continued head colds in your children. Persistent nasal drainage may be the aftermath of a cold as well as the beginning of a stubborn and health-wrecking sinus infection.

According to Dr. J. Ivor Griffiths of England, sinus infection in children may be a contributing cause for asthma, bronchitis and chronic running ear.

Air Spaces

The sinuses are air spaces in the face connected with the nose and lined with mucous membrane. Infections in these areas are hard to clear up because they are inaccessible and hard to get at.

Nevertheless, in the majority of cases an early sinus infection will respond to simple treatment. The longer the condition lasts, the less likely it is that complete recovery will take place without some kind of operation.

Hence, it is doubly important that when sinus infection first starts, it be promptly treated, first, because this is the time when treatment is most effective; second, because chronic or prolonged infection in the sinuses may be the cause of other disease.

In treating sinus infection, the most important step is to promote drainage, that is, to make sure that the secretions in the sinuses can drain out through the nose. If this is done, the lining membrane is given a chance to get over the inflammation. Sometimes little growths form in the sinuses, called polyps. If this happens, it is often necessary that the polyps be removed, so that drainage of the sinuses will occur.

In order to encourage the drainage, the lining membrane is shrunk by using such drugs as ephedrine and epinephrine. Some physicians also like to use suction, employing a water pump to pump out the secretions. Of course, this will be done gently so that the tissues are not injured.

It is also important to build up the general health with proper food, fresh air and sunshine.

The use of heat by means of short-wave treatment, which is an electrical form of treatment producing heat deep in the tissues, may also be helpful in overcoming inflammation and speeding up the drainage.

In more severe cases, it may be necessary to puncture certain of the sinuses and wash them out with antiseptic solutions.

It is suggested that if the kind of germs which are producing the infection are the kind that are destroyed by penicillin the sinuses may be filled with a penicillin solution. Remember that the earlier the treatment is carried out the better will be the results.

Plan Rural School Closing On May 24

LISBON, April 13.—Rural schools of Columbiana county, with the exception of Salineville, New Waterford and Fairfield schools, will observe the Good Friday holiday April 19, Supt. W. E. Roberts announced today.

The holiday, which was not originally included in the school calendar, will extend the closing date of schools one day to May 24, Roberts said.

The annual Play day of the county school children at Idora park which had been suspended during the war, will be resumed this year, and will be held on Thursday, May 23, with the children and their parents converging on the play spot for a grand outing.

Final examinations in the rural schools will be conducted on May 21 and 22, followed by Play day and the closing of school with the distribution of report cards on Friday, completing the school year.

Bad Diplomacy

Two things now are apparent in a casual view of international relations.

One is that the attempt of the United States to prove it could be firm with Russia has not come off as well as it might have.

The other is that the United Nations can be ruined if it is used as a diplomatic cockpit.

Our widely-praised and eagerly-awaited demonstration of toughness in relations with the Soviet Union failed to be as convincing because Iran turned out to be a weak case. In the showdown, the United States was left holding the bag. What was supposed to be a diplomatic triumph for Washington became a diplomatic triumph for Moscow instead. As Pravda, the Soviet Union's "loudspeaker," saw the situation, the Iranian question was inflated artificially then blew up in the faces of those matching wits and grips with Russian diplomacy. In short, while it was good politics for Washington to prove it could be firm with Russia, the means chosen were bad diplomacy. Russia was not impressed.

The incident confirmed misgivings about the fate of the United Nations if diplomats use it, as they used it in this case, to continue their traditional sparring, niggling and heckling. Russia, embarrassed by the security council's consideration of its position in Iran, now watches Poland embarrass the United States and Britain by chiding them for not throwing out Franco in Spain. There are dozens of things like this that can be brought up to distract the United Nations from its purposes. They are: to maintain peace, develop friendly relations, achieve international cooperation and be a center for harmonizing the actions of nations.

Calling other nations dirty names in diplomatic language is not included. To include it is to betray the hopes of all the people who are ready to renounce war and have put their faith in a handful of men conferring in the gymnasium of Hunter college, the Bronx, New York City.

A Small Down Payment

The Senate banking committee's 14-5 vote approving the British loan proposal brings this costly and important proposition to the point of congressional debate. It will be pointed out with deep conviction that the United States cannot afford not to make the $3,750,000,000 loan, as drawn up by international banking experts. In all probability, the proposal will carry and the loan will be made.

But there should be in every taxpayer's mind one reservation. Great Britain cannot be put on its feet and kept there as the English-speaking ally of the United States for $3,750,000,000. That amount, equivalent to the cost to this country of fighting World War II for a little more than a fortnight, is only a small down payment.

Once this government becomes committed to a peacetime version of its wartime lend-lease policy, there will be no limit to the billions that will follow one another into the yawning maw of international subsidy. Britain is starting with $3,750,000,000. France, according to Leon Blum, needs at least $4,000,000,000.

Lend-lease had reached more than $42,000,000,000 by last July. When it was started it was to be a garden hose we would "lend" to our neighbors to put out a fire. The British loan would be easier to think about if its backers were more candid in admitting that Britain couldn't be saved by a paltry $3,750,000,000. It's a lot of money to American taxpayers, but small change in the international subsidy business.

Misuse of Weapons

Interest in proposals to outlaw atomic weapons everywhere on earth, in line with the plan proposed by the State department, is curbed by misgivings about enforcement.

In a perfect society there would be no misuse of any lethal weapon. In fact, existing local, state and national laws make it theoretically impossible for lethal weapons to be misused now; they have been outlawed.

The laws against misuse of the weapons are never broken by those who respect them, but only by those who take advantage of the relative helplessness of the unarmed to coerce them by intimidation and the threat of injury.

This is a fact well-known to millions of Americans, citizens of the nation which would give up what it has for the promises of other nations never to take advantage thereafter of its good will. It accounts for American skepticism about all proposals to lift the threat of atomic destruction by having the United States turn over what it knows to other nations and to take no further advantage of its special knowledge.

It is too much like trying to lift a full-grown cow without limbering up first by lifting a calf. There seems never to have been an instance in history when men or nations actually succeeded in renouncing a powerful weapon except as forced to do so by fear of retaliation, as in the case of poison gas in World War II.

O Tempora

Prof. C. Herman Pritchett's most recent analysis of Supreme court decisions brings the rather startling revelation that even that august body is not impervious to time and inner change.

Specifically, Professor Pritchett informs us that Justice Felix Frankfurter is now one of a conservative minority of three on the highest tribunal. That's right—a conservative minority.

A long family argument over mowing the lawn is foolish. Cut it short!

For Sunday, April 14.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is not an entirely propitious or satisfactory one. There are many signs of duplicity, treachery, suspicion and sinister undercurrents, which are likely to find unhappy reactions on all the affairs of life. Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of perplexity, strange entanglements and difficult problems to manipulate on a basis of sound reasoning and high principle and not with dubious or sinister undercurrents.

PRETTY PICTURE PRINTS

Alphabets, declarations of love, a show of hands with playing cards and the regimental insignia of famous Scottish regiments break out in a rash of prints to give blouses their spring and summer appeal.

The other half of the story is in the print design, which quite often is a masterpiece on a pure silk scarf, attested to as genuine by the signature of the artist.

The styling of such blouses is intentionally kept simple. Typical styling used—as shown—is the back-buttoned, short-sleeved and collarless blouse.

At the left, the print picture that rules out style interference is a fan of brightly colored playing cards unfurled over a black-and-white cross-barred background. The front of the blouse is made of a Brooke Cadwallader-designed silk scarf.

Another Cadwallader scarf makes the front of the blouse, right. This one reprints in brilliant tones the colorful figures and insignia of the Royal Scot Fusiliers. The back of the blouse is made of black rayon crepe.

Municipality Group Seeks Recognition

COLUMBUS, April 13 — The League of Ohio Municipalities today renewed its fight for official recognition by the state legislature. Such recognition, conferred at a three-day session were told by Mayor Amos I. Kauffman of Lakewood, would enhance chances for a larger share of the state's sales tax receipts in city budgets.

"The league should have no stone thrown to have legislation enacted by the 97th general assembly," Kauffman said yesterday. "To provide for a larger distribution of these funds to local governments. The sales tax revenue for 1946 will exceed that of 1945 by at least $15,000,000, or an increase of approximately $38,000,000 in excess of the amount received in 1940."

Kauffman's remarks were supported by Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus, who asserted that "the state tax structure is ill-conceived and wrong."

"It is a decidedly unhealthy condition for the state to have a big treasury balance while Ohio cities are either bankrupt or on the verge of bankruptcy," he said.

He called upon the legislature to redistrict the state so that large population centers would have what he termed adequate representation.

OPA AMENDMENTS TO PROVE COSTLY

Congress Told Americans Face Two Million Living Cost Jump

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 13—Congress, told by OPA that Americans face a $2,000,000,000 cost of living jump, heard a demand from one of its own committees today that meat prices be boosted $750,000,000 a year.

Price Administrator Paul Porter voiced the living cost prediction in protesting amendments tacked on the pending bill to extend OPA beyond June 30.

The house agriculture committee instructed its chairman, Rep. Flannagan (D-Va.), to offer an amendment to the OPA bill eliminating all meat subsidies and requiring an equivalent increase in price ceilings.

Meat subsidies now amount to about $750,000,000 a year.

The legislation to continue OPA another year will come before the house for debate Monday.

Aid To Inflation

OPA's Porter, in a letter to Chairman Spencer (D-Ky.) of the house banking committee, said amendments put into the bill by the committee would cost consumers $2,000,000,000 more in one year and deliver a "body blow" to efforts to hold down inflation.

Porter said the amendments would boost the nation's annual clothing bill by 10 per cent, or around $1,200,000,000.

He estimated they would "transfer at least $425,000,000 from the pockets of American car buyers to the pockets of American car dealers," and increase prices of many other items.

Porter's letter was aimed specifically at provisions which would: 1. Prevent OPA from cutting retail profit margins on such items as automobiles, refrigerators and radios through the cost-absorption program;

2. Repeal the maximum average price order by which OPA requires manufacturers to make low-cost clothing;

3. Set up a special formula for pricing cotton and wool cloth.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Holt and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Groner attended the concert by the Wittenberg choir at Canton Thursday evening.

Mrs. Ethel Murphy is visiting relatives at Smithfield.

Quakers Win Initial Track Meet Against Youngstown Rayen

Coach Fred Cope's Squad Wins 94-24, Looks Improved; Win Firsts In Every Event Except Shot Put In Opener

Coach Fred Cope's Quaker track aggregation opened its season officially at Reilly stadium yesterday afternoon with an impressive 94-24 victory over a game Youngstown Rayen squad as several hundred fans shivered along with the participants in the chilly spring air.

Captain Bill Ward, veteran of three seasons, began his Senior year well with first places in the 100, the low hurdles and the 220-yard dash for 15 points.

Besides Ward's three firsts, Salem won all the events with the exception of the shot put, where Quakers failed to perform up to practice standards.

Cope's half-mile relay team, with its best time of the year, looked good in taking the measure of the Rayenites easily. The time, considerably better than any so far this season, was 1 min. 40.9 sec.

Glen Thorne, who placed first in the mile and second in the half-mile, posted an improved 1 min. 54.6 sec. mark in the four-lap event and won without a serious threat from the field.

Bob Little's half-mile exhibition, in 2 min. 11.5 sec., was also an encouraging improvement, Cope indicated.

The Salem thincads displayed a marked improvement in all departments but the shot, despite the fact that the weather was far from ideal for a track meet.

Bob Payer's heave of 127 ft. 5 1/2 in. took first in the discus and marked the longest throw the lanky sophomore has made in competition. With a little improvement, Payer should be a district contender in the discus this season.

Ted Boone was given third in the high hurdles but Bob Huddleston actually won the place. Boone was fourth, but gets official credit for the spot as Huddleston was not a declared entry at the start.

Cope was reasonably pleased with the team's showing yesterday but was disappointed in the showings of some of the individuals. He said the hard work already put in by such improved men as Ward, Stoltz, Thorne and several others was encouraging, but he indicated that much better times and distances could be posted by others if more diligent practicing were observed.

Salem will be idle next week, spring vacation, but Cope hopes to arrange a practice affair about mid-week.

Toledo Board Of Education Member Urging Title Test Between Class A-B Winners

Grant Murray of Toledo, vice president of the board of education and a well-known exponent of improvement for Ohio scholastic athletics, has proposed a state title game between Class A and B basketball winners in 1947 to determine which champion of the two groups is the best.

Murray, whose outspoken criticism of the Ohio High School Athletic association procedure in "secret voting" resulted in a change in methods last year, suggests that the battle between the champions be held in Columbus a week following the regular tournament games in 1947.

Tibbals reports that Murray is organizing a movement among Ohio coaches and school representatives to force such a game into reality.

The current practice in Class A and B leaves the champions of the two groups unchallenged after they have won their respective championships.

Class A schools are those with more than 150 boys in high school and Class B those with a male enrollment of less than 150.

Murray said he believes the additional game would mean more to the two class champions, their followers and the home towns than all the other games leading up to the championships.

"And after all," Murray, now serving his third term on the Toledo board of education, declared "the schools belong to the kids and the community. Principals and superintendents are just incidental."

He contends that defeat of either the Class A or B champion by the other would not lessen the glory "even a little" and added that a chance at the A champion would be literally something "out of this world" for the B winner.

Murray's plan would bring Ohio's championships to a peak similar to that of the state of Indiana, every team in the state participates in the one tournament, starting from scratch and progressing as far as possible. Only the one champion is named each year.

In further support of his plan, Murray pointed to little Waterloo, which captured the 1934 and 1935 Class B championships.

"Here was a team," said Murray, "which would have licked any Class A champion."

"A boy in a Class B school under the superb coaching now in our schools," Murray concluded, "can assimilate as much basketball skill as boys in Class A schools."

Toledo Board Of Education Member Urging Title Test Between Class A-B Winners

Grant Murray of Toledo, vice president of the board of education and a well-known exponent of improvement for Ohio scholastic athletics, has proposed a state title game between Class A and B basketball winners in 1947 to determine which champion of the two groups is the best.

Murray, whose outspoken criticism of the Ohio High School Athletic association procedure in "secret voting" resulted in a change in methods last year, suggests that the battle between the champions be held in Columbus a week following the regular tournament games in 1947.

Tibbals reports that Murray is organizing a movement among Ohio coaches and school representatives to force such a game into reality.

The current practice in Class A and B leaves the champions of the two groups unchallenged after they have won their respective championships.

Class A schools are those with more than 150 boys in high school and Class B those with a male enrollment of less than 150.

Murray said he believed the additional game would mean more to the two class champions, their followers and the home towns than all the other games leading up to the championships.

"And after all," Murray, now serving his third term on the Toledo board of education, declared "the schools belong to the kids and the community. Principals and superintendents are just incidental."

He contends that defeat of either the Class A or B champion by the other would not lessen the glory "even a little" and added that a chance at the A champion would be literally something "out of this world" for the B winner.

Murray's plan would bring Ohio's championships to a peak similar to that of the state of Indiana, every team in the state participates in the one tournament, starting from scratch and progressing as far as possible. Only the one champion is named each year.

In further support of his plan, Murray pointed to little Waterloo, which captured the 1934 and 1935 Class B championships.

"Here was a team," said Murray, "which would have licked any Class A champion."

"A boy in a Class B school under the superb coaching now in our schools," Murray concluded, "can assimilate as much basketball skill as boys in Class A schools."

National Committee Offends House Dems

WASHINGTON, April 13.—A group of house Democrats today called for a party caucus to consider what one of them termed a "boner" by the Democratic national committee.

The action to which they object was a recent letter from Democratic headquarters to the party's county chairman advising them to "select proper candidates" for congress.

The protesting Democrats circulated a letter describing the letter as a reflection on present officeholders. It was the second intra-party clash within a fortnight.

Richard R. Nacy, executive vice chairman of the national committee, termed the whole affair an "error."

Nacy sent a telegram to at least one Democrat, Rep. O'Toole of New York, advising him of the mistake. The telegram, as given out by O'Toole, said:

"If within the last few days a letter went out of this office addressed to the county chairman of your district urging them to select proper candidates for congress it was addressed through error."

"This letter was intended to be sent only to county chairman in districts now represented by Republicans. Instead it was sent through error to the county chairmen in some Democratic districts."

A letter is going forward today asking them to disregard our letter of previous date."

Men To Work While NLRB Decides Bucyrus Dispute

BUCYRUS, April 13.—The United Steelworkers (CIO) announced today its members would return to work Monday in the Crawford steel foundry where a group of independent union men have been working and living since March 20.

In a paid advertisement in the Bucyrus Telegraph Forum, the USW said the men would receive the same pay as when they struck Jan. 21.

W. F. Bell, area USW spokesman, said the union felt it could not keep men off the job for the duration of hearings on union charges before the National Labor Relations Board, which he said might last two to six months.

On March 20, a reported 83 men entered a rear gate, bringing cots and food. The company reported today 160 had been staying in the plant, but made no further comment.

MYSTERY OF

oratory conditions in the Aleutians. We needed a way of knowing when the sun, the sea, the effect of the land, and storms would combine to make any of the infinite number of conditions that the laboratory scientists told us would cause fog."

Studied On Shemya Island

Leipper and his colleagues started in by studying local weather habits on Shemya island, only 25 miles from Attu. They learned just how moist the air ordinarily was at any time of day or season of the year.

They learned what was the normal temperature of the air at the surface of the ground and at 10,000 feet in the air. They studied the normal variations, both for the hours of the day and the months of the year. And they studied the peculiarities of fog formation for the island by watching the fog. When they got through this part of the work, they could draw a normal fog chart.

But, of course, weather hardly is ever perfectly normal. So then they prepared charts to take into consideration all of the elements of weather which would make any of the conditions depart from the normal.

They prepared maps of ocean water which showed the temperatures of ocean currents. And they studied the great world weather maps issued every six hours which indicate the movements of storms.

Breaking these down, they could predict what kinds of winds would be blowing at the time the planes were due back.

"Finally, with all this information, we were able to make a mental picture of the various fog elements for any time in the near future," Leipper explained. "Of course, the nearer in the future, the sharper the picture."

Elements Considered

"We dropped the old idea of classifying fog by one of the possible principal causes. We found that distracted us. Instead we considered all causes together. That way we found that minor elements might offset greater ones."

Actually, the way Leipper works, all of these different things are reduced to graph lines and symbols on a series of charts.

These charts are instruments for quantitatively analyzing fog makers and fog dispersers.
